PARENTS AND TEACHERS WORKING TOGETHER
It was lovely to see so many parents able to attend our Parent Information Evenings and the ‘You Tell Us’ sessions recently. Valuable information was shared and this home school partnership ensures the very best outcomes for your child. All parents should have now received a 2014 Information booklet from their child’s teacher outlining specific details pertaining to your child’s class. If for some reason you haven’t received this information please make contact with your child’s teacher.

Below are some simple suggestions that will support your child/children and ensure positive relationships with your teachers:
1. Know what your child’s teacher is trying to achieve
2. Keep your expectations reasonable and positive
3. Support your teacher’s expectations and activities at home
4. Send your child/children to school ready to learn and on time each day
5. Inform the school of any challenges and/or changes
6. Skill children to work with others
7. Respectfully seek joint solutions to problems and difficulties
8. Participate where you can in class and school activities
9. Trust your teacher’s knowledge, professionalism and experience
10. Talk up what happens at school

CITY OF GLEN EIRA PARENT INFORMATION EVENING

Andrew Fuller is a clinical psychologist, family therapist and author of best sellers, Tricky Kids; Life: A Guide and Tricky People. He is a fellow of the Department of Learning and Educational Development at the University of Melbourne. He is in demand across Australia and internationally as a facilitator of learning experiences.
This is a free event. However, bookings are essential to secure yourself a seat. Please call Youth Services on 9524 3676 to book your seat.

FAMILIES TAKING HOLIDAYS
Each year a number of families choose to take a holiday during the school term. When this occurs we hope you and your family enjoy this time away.
I remind all families that classroom teachers will not provide specific work for the time you are away but we offer the following suggestions :-

- Use a scrapbook or diary to document and record all the wonderful people, places and events you experience on your travels. The class teachers are more than happy to provide a suitable scrapbook if you’d like.
- Packing of a few extra books to read while relaxing.
- Finding and investigating the ‘maths’ on your holiday. Be a mathematician on your holidays. Look for and investigate all the maths that surrounds everyone, all the time.
- Logging onto suitable websites such as Mathletics and Reading Eggs.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION
There has been recent media attention regarding the provision of special religious instruction (SRI) in Victorian government schools. Religious Education classes for 2014 will commence on Wednesday 5th May for Year 1 to 6 students and in term 2 for our preps. Please be assured that we adhere to DEECD guidelines in relation to this program by obtaining parental advice via the prescribed form. Our SRI program is provided by accredited and approved instructors. SRI isn’t compulsory and students who do not attend are supervised by staff during these sessions. If parents have any questions, please feel free to contact me.
LICE ALERT
We have again had several incidences of head lice in the school recently, particularly in the grade 1/2 area. Please check your child’s hair regularly and treat it if necessary. A head lice treatment fact sheet is available at the office.

SCHOOL CONTRIBUTIONS
A reminder to families that school contribution payments are now due. Thank you to those families who have already settled this with Bruce, Pip or Annie. If you are unclear about any of these payments, then please call into the office for further details.

WORDS OF WISDOM – Be with those who help your being 😊

PARENTING IDEAS by MICHAEL GROSE – Parent Educator
Kids can be picky about who they play and mix with. Popularity should not be confused with sociability. A number of studies in recent decades have shown that appearance, personality type and ability impact on a child’s popularity at school. Good-looking, easy-going, talented kids usually win peer popularity polls but that doesn’t necessarily guarantee they will have friends.

Those children and young people who develop strong friendships have a definite set of skills that help make them easy to like, easy to relate to and easy to play with.

Here are twelve essential skills that children have identified as being important for making and keeping friends:

1. Ability to share possessions and space
2. Keeping confidences and secrets
3. Offering to help
4. Accepting others’ mistakes
5. Being positive and enthusiastic
6. Starting a conversation
7. Winning and losing well
8. Listening to others
9. Starting and maintaining a conversation
10. Ignoring someone who is annoying you
11. Cooperating with others
12. Giving and receiving compliments

Friendship skills are generally developmental. That is, kids grow into these skills given exposure to different situations and with adult help. In past generations ‘exposure to different situations’ meant opportunities to play with each other, with siblings and with older and younger friends. They were reminded by parents about how they should act around others. They were also ‘taught’ from a very young age.

The NEW CHILD grows up with fewer siblings, fewer opportunities for unstructured play and less freedom to explore friendships than children of even ten years ago. A parenting style that promotes a high sense of individual entitlement rather than the notion of fitting in appears to be popular at the moment.

These factors can lead to delayed or arrested development in these essential friendship skills, resulting in very unhappy, self-centred children. Here are some ideas if you think your child experiences developmental delay in any of these essential skills or just needs some help to acquire them:

1. Encourage or insist that kids play and work with each other: Allowing kids the freedom to be kids is part of the message here but parents have to be cunning with the NEW CHILD and construct situations where kids have to get on with each other. For some kids “Go outside and play” is a good place to start!!
2. Play with your kids: Interact with your kids through games and other means so you can help kids learn directly from you how to get on with others.
3. Talk about these skills: If you notice your kids need to develop some of these skills then talk about them, point out when they show them and give them some implementation ideas. Kids are quite ego-centric and need to develop a sense of ‘other’ so they can successfully negotiate the many social situations that they find themselves in. As parents we often focus on the development of children’s academic skills and can quite easily neglect the development of these vitally important social skills, which contribute so much to children’s happiness and well-being.

Congratulations to all students for their outstanding efforts in the House Swimming Carnival last week. The weather was kind to us and all students (and some teachers!) had a chance to achieve their best in a huge range of swimming & diving events across the day. Special congratulations to BLUE HOUSE who were the overall winners on the day. We were particularly impressed with the number of students who were a little unsure about swimming the 50 metres confidently but were still prepared to have a go. Well done to all participants.

The District Swimming Carnival will be held on Tuesday, 4th March and students who have qualified for the Carnegie Swim team were notified last week. We wish our Carnegie swim team all the best and look forward to reporting back on their success soon. The following is a list of all event winners from last week:

Junior Scientists visit John Monash Science School

Matilda Baird, Emily Cox, Jules Barnacle and Nick Brooks, were keen participants in their first visit to the John Monash Science School at Monash University recently. On this visit they studied Nanotechnology with assistance from Year 11 students. Here is their report:

‘We had a lot of fun and learnt new things. Last week we learnt about Nanotechnology which is the study of really small things.
We all loved using the magic sand and experimenting with what it does and how it works. It was a great opportunity to see a real laboratory and let our imaginations run wild’.

These students will be attending 3 more sessions, investigating various facets of science and then present a science project of their choice at a special evening at John Monash Science School.

Clean Up Australia Day for Schools this Friday 28th February

This Friday, children will be helping to clean up our school grounds for ‘Clean Up Australia Day’. If you have gardening gloves at home it would be great if your child could bring them to use, otherwise we will have some disposable gloves at school.
